Construction Activities & Upcoming Work

All traffic control has been removed from the project area including the message boards along Highway 75 from Challis to Stanley. In the next week or so, the traffic control will be going back up in the Pebble Beach area to repair and clean up a slope failure. There will again be signals and a single restricted lane for alternating traffic.

Notifications again will be sent out to the local media outlets before starting work, and these weekly newsletters will continue as usual to keep everyone informed as to when the work will resume and be completed.

When the work starts back up, there will be traffic delays and lane restrictions till completion of the Pebble Beach repairs later this summer. For the week ahead there will be no work or delays to traffic. Please be very cautious and alert when traveling through The Narrows and Pebble Beach areas. Thank You.
